Ontario Police Arbitration Commission

Annual Report

Fiscal Year 2018-19

Message from the Chair

During the fiscal year 2018-19, the Ontario Police Arbitration Commission (OPAC) fulfilled all legislated obligations under Part VIII of the Police Services Act, providing effective conciliation and arbitration services to the Ontario policing community. OPAC satisfied all reporting requirements for the creation and approval of the Commission's business plan, projected budget, risk assessment, annual report, financial reports, public posting, compliance of attestation, and performance measures. All mandatory service delivery timelines were met or exceeded.

Since becoming Chair of the Commission, I have reached out to the Ontario Association of Police Services Boards (OAPSB), the Police Association of Ontario (PAO), and the Ontario Association of Chiefs of Police (OACP). The intention was to maintain, and foster, a professional working relationship with the organizations and to convey OPAC's genuine willingness to assist police services and police associations in finding ways to mitigate undue labour relations strife where it may arise. OPAC met jointly with the OAPSB, PAO and OACP to discuss OPAC's proposed strategic direction. All the participants responded favourably to the idea of mitigating undue labour relations issues subject to working out the logistics and execution of the strategy.

OPAC made significant improvements to the storage of statistical data, how it is categorized and analyzed. Historic conciliation and arbitration information about rights and interest disputes has been integrated into a searchable database. OPAC now has the capacity to provide detailed labour relations information for every police service in Ontario. We have the ability to accurately identify the type, frequency and location of conciliation, and arbitration applications made to OPAC.

On March 26, 2019 the Comprehensive Ontario Police Services Act, 2019 (COPS Act, 2019) was passed. OPAC's name will change to the Ontario Police Arbitration and Adjudication Commission (OPAAC), and its mandate will expand to include new legislative responsibilities, including municipal budget disputes, workplace reprisals, First Nations policing and discipline matters. I, and OPAC's Executive Officer, met with the Policing Standards Division and legal counsel to discuss regulations and timelines. While the language of the COPS Act, 2019 is well known, the details of the ancillary regulations are not. OPAC will continue to monitor the development of the regulations, and very much look forward to assuming the expanded legislated mandate.

Sig M. Walter

Chair

Executive Summary

During the 2018-19 fiscal year, the Ontario Police Arbitration Commission (OPAC) met, or exceeded, all mandated requirements set out under Part VIII of the Police Services Act. OPAC's Arbitrator Register was enhanced with the addition of four new arbitrators.

The Chair continued consultation regarding mitigation of labour relations disputes in policing with the OAPSB, PAO, and liaison with the OACP. Additionally, the Chair met with select police services to discuss ways of mitigating undue labour relations strife and relationship breakdowns. Participants in the discussions included police services board Chairs, Chiefs of police and Presidents of police associations.

Three Commission Members were reappointed and confirmed, making for a full complement of OPAC Members. Additionally, OPAC's Executive Officer continued on a renewed secondment, necessitating his extended appointment as acting Executive Officer.

OPAC processed 104 conciliation files and 51 arbitration files. Activity summaries for conciliations and arbitrations occurring in 2018-19 are found in Appendix 1. The total number of conciliation and arbitration files, including carryover from earlier years, reached 155 compared to the 10-year average of approximately 172 files. The 10-year activity summary is located in Appendix 2.

The following strategic objectives, outlined in the 2018-19 Business Plan were successfully executed:

- Maintenance of timely service delivery by conciliators and mediator/arbitrators.
- Added four arbitrators to the register to ensure availability of high-quality conciliation and arbitration services at all times.
- Exploration of ways to mitigate undue labour relations difficulties with input from the OAPSB, PAO and liaison with the OACP.
- Staff completed training, and development to improve database capability for the collection of data, accurate statistical input, organization, and analysis.

OPAC's budget for fiscal year 2018-19 was $458,700. OPAC operated under-budget with a total expenditure of $370,978. The Financial Report is located on page 6.

Legislative Authority

The legislative authority of OPAC is set out under section 131(1) of the Police Services Act, R.S.O. 1990, c.P. 15 as amended. The statutory responsibilities of OPAC are set out specifically in subsection 131 (5):

131 (5) The Arbitration Commission has the following responsibilities:

1. Maintaining a register of arbitrators who are available for appointment under section 124.
2. Assisting arbitrators by making administrative arrangements in connection with arbitrations.
3. Fixing the fees of arbitrators appointed by the Solicitor General under section 124.
4. Sponsoring the publication and distribution of information about agreements, arbitrations and awards.
5. Sponsoring research on the subject of agreements, arbitrations and awards.
6. Maintaining a file of agreements, decisions and awards made under this Part.

Mandate

OPAC is an independent adjudicative agency whose mission is to provide for the neutral administration of the Labour Relations, Part VIII, of the Police Services Act in an effective and timely manner.

Responsibilities of OPAC as outlined in the Memorandum of Understanding between OPAC and the Ministry of the Solicitor General are to:

- Promote harmonious labour relations in the police community
- Administer the mediation/arbitration process for police contract bargaining disputes and rights grievances
- Provide conciliation services prior to arbitration
- Assist parties negotiating a voluntary collective agreement
- Sponsor research with respect to police arbitration processes and awards

Role of OPAC

OPAC was established in 1972 to facilitate an effective, efficient process to assist police associations and police services boards in Ontario in resolving labour and contract bargaining disputes. There are two types of disputes:

- “Rights” disputes involve the interpretation, application, administration or alleged violation of an existing agreement or award
- “Interest” disputes involve settling, amendments to an existing collective agreement, or establishing terms for a new collective agreement

In accordance with Labour Relations Part VIII of the Police Services Act, OPAC appoints conciliators and mediator/arbitrators to resolve rights and interest disputes between police associations and police services boards throughout Ontario.

OPAC does not influence, or interfere, in the conciliation or mediation/arbitration process. OPAC promotes harmonious labour relations to improve the effectiveness of policing in Ontario.

Composition of OPAC

Section 131(2) of the Police Services Act sets out the composition of OPAC. It consists of a Chair and two representatives of boards, recommended for appointment by the OAPSB and two representatives of associations, recommended for appointment by the PAO. The Solicitor General must consult with or attempt to consult with the bargaining agents or employers’ organizations prior to a Chair being appointed to OPAC.

See further Services breakdown in the table below:

Services Breakdown

Fiscal Year 2018-19	Actuals
Conciliation Services	$59,621
Arbitration Services	$28,501
Other Services	$93,490
Total:	$181,612

The budget for 2018-19 was $458,700. In 2018-19, OPAC's total expenditures were $370,978 resulting in an underspend of $87,722. Factors that affected OPAC's expenditures were reduced numbers of conciliation applications (in part due to OPAC's strategic direction to mitigate labour disputes) and OPAC staffing was not at full complement. Total remuneration for all OPAC appointees for the 2018-19 fiscal year was $73,460.

OPAC has created a culture that seeks constant improvement to administrative procedures, service standards/delivery and fiscal accountability. The discipline deployed during the fiscal year, has in part, assisted in reducing expenditures. The Chair has engaged the OAPSB, PAO and OACP in direct discussions in an effort to find ways to mitigate undue labour relations conflict. A dramatic drop in the number of conciliation applications suggests the mitigation strategy had a positive impact. OPAC finished the year significantly under budget.

Overviews of Programs and Activities

Conciliation Services

As a result of parties not being able to resolve their differences through negotiation, a police association, police services board, or an individual may request the appointment of a conciliator by applying to OPAC under sections 121 (interest disputes) or 123 (rights disputes) of the Police Services Act. An impartial conciliation officer is appointed to assist the parties to resolve or reduce the number of outstanding issues. Unresolved issues may be referred to arbitration. The purpose of conciliation is to assist parties in reaching a mutually agreeable resolution without proceeding to arbitration, which avoids an expensive and potentially lengthy process for all parties involved.

OPAC uses the services of five experienced conciliators, with flexible schedules that occasionally allow them to accommodate multiple hearings on the same day in various locations throughout the province.

2018-19 Conciliation Highlights

- 70 new applications for conciliator appointments
- 104 conciliation files were handled in total, including carryover from previous years
- 69 conciliations heard over 58 hearing days

Conciliation activity in fiscal year 2018-19 was lower than previous years. Activity decreased nearly by 46% from last fiscal year, reaching a record low of 70 new applications for a total of 104 files. The detailed conciliation activity report, which includes grievance types and outcomes, is available in Appendix 1.

Mediation-Arbitration Services

In the event parties are unable to resolve differences through conciliation and cannot agree on the joint appointment of an arbitrator, a police association, police services board, or an individual may request OPAC to appoint an arbitrator. In October 1997, the Police Services Act was amended to allow an assisted dispute resolution mechanism to deal with police contract bargaining disputes. As a result, the emphasis on mediation prior to arbitration has increased the number of settlements between the parties in interest and rights disputes, as reflected in OPAC's statistics.

2018-19 Arbitration Highlights

- 32 new applications for arbitrator appointments
- 51 arbitration files were handled in total, including carryover from previous years
- 19 arbitration files heard over 23 hearing days

Arbitration activity in fiscal year 2018-19 was over OPAC's 10-year average. Due to a high number of conciliations in 2017-18, an increase of arbitrations occurred in 2018-19. The detailed activity report is available in Appendix 1.

Mitigation of Undue Labour Relations Strife - Strategic Direction

OPAC has, and will, continue to utilize its statistical database to identify the frequency with which police services and police associations apply to OPAC for conciliation services or appointment of arbitrators. Where statistical analysis shows unusual increases in the number of disputes in a particular police service, OPAC will flag its observation with the OAPSB and the PAO. Subject to discussion with the two organizations, OPAC may write to a police service and police association offering OPAC's assistance if the parties mutually agree. In 2018, the Chair met with three large police services who had elevated numbers of requests for the appointment of OPAC conciliators. Subsequent to the Chair's meetings with the three police services, requests for conciliator appointments dramatically declined.

Distribution of Labour Relations Information

OPAC is committed to providing information about its services to stakeholders and the public in a transparent and accessible manner. OPAC's website (www.policearbitration.on.ca) provides historic information on arbitration decisions and communicates policies, procedures, and accountability documents to stakeholders, legal counsel, labour relations personnel in the broader public sector and the public. Individuals can freely access this information and utilize the awards, summaries, and agreements as research materials. OPAC's website has removed barriers for users in compliance with the Accessibility for Ontarians with Disabilities Act, including Web Content Accessibility Guidelines 2.0.

Performance Measures – Fiscal Year 2018-19
